• System settings application: The application can be written as a system settings application.. If such an application is included on the device, the All Done screen at the end of setup will be replaced with an Almost Done screen that contains an introduction to the partner application.. However, this account setup application will run before the hardware buttons are enabled, and if the application does not exit, the user will be forced to wait with an unresponsive device until the five minute delay is finished and the hardware buttons become functional.. To ensure that users do not end up seeing mobile operator configuration options that do not apply to their device or network, consider these possible mitigations:

- Network verification: The application must verify that the device is on the specified mobile operator's network before displaying any account setup functionality for that mobile operator..

Exiting the application As a general rule, applications designed for Windows 10 Mobile should not exit – the user can navigate out of the application by using the Back and Start hardware buttons..
